THE ANSWER IS ON THE NEXT PAGE

Non-native Birds

All are non-native birds that arrived in New Jersey with human assistance. House sparrows reached New Jersey in 1868. The state's first house finch was discovered in Ridgewood in 1949. And the first house crow reported from North America disembarked in New Jersey in June 1971.

House Finches

House Sparrows

Unfortunately, I've never taken a picture of a house crow.
